Florida State University Affinity Group Guidelines

Thank you for your interest in creating an Affinity Group at The Florida State University (FSU). The FSU definition of an Affinity Group is a group of employees, with varied status, whose primary purpose is to develop and improve the campus climate. This excludes religious and political affiliations. Additionally, they can help increase morale, provide insights into diverse areas, build bridges to the community and empower members.

Florida State University considers Affinity Groups to be a vital component that connects various members of the FSU workforce with each other and with the institution. Therefore, an inherent element of the mission of an Affinity Group is to promote the welfare of Florida State University and to establish mutually beneficial relationships between FSU, its workforce, members of the Affinity Group, and the communities FSU serves.

These Guidelines are intended to provide general information for employees interested in establishing an Affinity Group and as a resource for any Affinity Group that currently exist. Please note that this is a fluid document and it is subject to change. If additional information is needed or you have subsequent questions, please contact the office of Diversity & Inclusion:

Establishing an Affinity Group

The success of a new Affinity Group primarily depends on a small core of dedicated and interested employees. It takes commitment from these individuals to ensure the group organizes itself in such a way as to guarantee continuity. Listed below are the criteria along with a few helpful suggestions on establishing your new Affinity Group and to assure consistency with Affinity Group program objectives:

1. Complete an Affinity Group Application.
2. Establish a list of at least (5) interested faculty and/or staff members willing to join your Affinity Group.
3. Create a financial plan to support the Affinity Group.
4. Identify your targeted members, understanding that membership must be open to anyone who supports the mission of the group.
5. Prepare a mission statement for your Affinity Group as well as the goals and objectives of the group. (See Sample Mission Statements, pg. 9 of the Affinity Group Framework document)
6. The first meeting should be coordinated with and acknowledged by the office of Diversity & Inclusion with final approval from the Assistant Vice President of Human Resources.

Please review the Affinity Group framework to obtain more information on what topics need to be discussed and approved during your initial meeting.
