Essential Critical Personnel

The University President or designee will occasionally need to close University operations due to an emergency or impending emergency. The majority of University business operations will cease during the University closure. However, services that are deemed essential to the University must continue. When feasible, designation of essential critical personnel should be made after the announcement of the impending University closure but before University operations cease. In cases where a designation of essential personnel cannot be made ahead of the closure, reporting of essential employees that performed work during the University closure must be reported to Human Resources no later than 72 hours after business operations have resumed.
